EDUCATION + TECH

TonNet is a 30-something educator, writer and blogger. He manages Education and Technology, which was created to build hope that Education still can make you rich not only spiritually but economically. 'TonNet' is Milton Ramirez. He has a D.Ed. from Loja National University (UNL, Ecuador), and he hails from NYC. For any questions, tips or concerns please e-mail us to: [contact \[at\] miltonramirez \[dot\] com](mailto:contact[at]miltonramirez[dot]com)

WHO'S TONNET

If you are a regular at Education & Tech, you shall remember that I'd written a post almost everyday since 2003 and before, it even had different names such as Blog For Spanish Readers, BPLe, and so. You'd find posts in Spanish because that's how this blog started. Education & Tech covers tender questions of human living and rougher matters rotting the educators core.

The 2008 National Cyberethics, Cybersafety, Cybersecurity (C3) Baseline Study was conducted to explore educational awareness policies, initiatives, curriculum, and practices currently taking place in American public and private K-12 settings. Participants in the survey, which was administered online, included 1,569 public and private K-12 educators and 94 technology coordinators. Additionally, 219 educators, local and state technology coordinators, and state technology directors participated in focus groups.

In the area of cyber crime, such as protecting, identifying, and responding to identity theft, predators, and bullying, less than five percent of educators said that this information is included in the state curriculum. Only eight percent said it was included in the health/safety curriculum. Twenty percent said that media specialists provide this information at their schools.

An 8th grade education might just be enough...

Wednesday, January 7, 2009

While I've been doodling here down in the rabbit hole of high technology, debating whether my soul can be digitally remastered, Obama has decided that the business of education is to ensure "our children are developing the skills they need to compete with any worker in the world for any job ." Reflecting on 2008

Wednesday, January 7, 2009

Since I've been on vacation and reflecting offline for the past two weeks, it's time for me to put down my thoughts for 2008 and my predictions for 2009 (a separate post). What can I say about 2008? It was a fascinating year for me professionally. I started the year without a job having resigne... .. read more..

Obama pledges schools upgrade in stimulus plan - LIBBY QUAID, AP

Thursday, January 8, 2009

Barack Obama probably cannot fix every leaky roof and busted boiler in the nation's schools. But educators say his sweeping school modernization program - if he spends enough - could jump-start student achievement. More kids than ever are crammed into aging, run-down schools that need an estimated $... .. read more..
